clutching his torso. Brown was walking toward the officer in a stumbling manner. The police officer had his gun drawn and pointed at Brown the entire time. Approximately 15 to 30 seconds after [REDACTED] heard the first two gunshots, the officer fired approximately four to five more rounds in the direction of Brown. Brown collapsed to his knees and fell to the ground. Brown appeared to be dead when he collapsed to the ground.

Additional officers arrived on scene almost immediately, but paramedics did not arrive for approximately 30 minutes. Brown's body was not removed for approximately four to five hours.

[REDACTED] was shown an aerial photograph of Canfield Road and several apartment buildings. [REDACTED] advised the balcony from which he witnessed the shooting was part of the building labeled "2" on the photograph. SA [REDACTED] circled the photograph of the balcony at the direction of [REDACTED] to show where he was standing. [REDACTED] advised that Brown and his friend were walking in the direction of building "5" in the middle of Canfield Road, notated with a blue ink arrow on the photograph. [REDACTED] then pointed to the map, notated by a blue X, depicting the approximate area where Brown was standing when [REDACTED] initially saw Brown and the Officer. [REDACTED] advised that the area notated with a blue C, was the approximate area where the officer was standing facing Brown. [REDACTED] approximated the area where the police officer's vehicle was during the incident and SA [REDACTED] marked it with a blue square on the photograph. [REDACTED] advised that he felt the notations on the photograph accurately represented the incident he witnessed between Brown and the police officer. [REDACTED] signed and dated the photograph, which has been placed into an FD-340 envelope for retention and retrieval purposes.

[REDACTED] captured video of the scene following the shooting incident on his cellular telephone. A digital copy of the video [REDACTED] captured has been uploaded to the 1A section of this case file.

UNCLASSIFIED

Results of Examinations:

A pubic hair which exhibits Caucasian characteristics was found on Items 1 through 6. A head hair which exhibits Caucasian characteristics and Negroid head hairs were found on Item 11. Caucasian head hairs were found on Items 12 and 13. If microscopic hair comparisons are requested, please submit known head and pubic hair samples. A known head hair sample should consist of at least twenty-five (25) hairs selected from all areas of the scalp; a known pubic hair sample should consist of at least twenty-five (25) hairs selected from all areas of the pubic region.

No other hairs suitable for significant microscopic comparison purposes were found on the submitted items.

Textile fibers of various types and colors were found on Items 1 through 6, 9, 11, 12, and 13; however, no apparent textile fiber interchange was detected between Items 1 through 6, and 9 through 11, and Items 12 and 13.

No hairs or fibers were found on Item 10.

The submitted specimens were examined using stereomicroscopy, comparison microscopy, polarized light microscopy, and fluorescence microscopy, where appropriate.

It should be noted that these items were processed prior to receipt in the Trace Evidence Unit.

Interpretation:

Hairs may be characterized and classified according to their morphology. The first step is determining whether the hair is of human or animal (non-human) origin. Animal hairs may be further classified as to the type of hair (e.g., fur, guard) and the type of animal (e.g., dog, cat). Human hairs may be further examined for characteristics of Ancestry and somatic origin (body area). Human hairs can exhibit Caucasian (European Ancestry), Negroid (African Ancestry) and/or Mongoloid (Asian or Native American Ancestry) characteristics. Ancestral group classifications are based on characteristics which are typically observed in hairs from individuals of different ancestral groups and may or may not correspond with how an individual identifies his or her race. Body area classifications are based on the macroscopic and microscopic characteristics which are typically observed in hairs from different areas of the body.

The characteristics exhibited in the hair(s) are used as the comparison criteria. When the presence or absence, appearance, and distribution of characteristics exhibited in a recovered hair(s) are represented in the known sample, the source of the known sample can be included as a possible source of the recovered hair(s). Microscopic hair comparisons are meaningful due to the variation in macroscopic and microscopic characteristics between individuals. However, the comparison of hair characteristics does not constitute a basis for personal identification and the number of individuals who could be included as a possible source of a specific hair is unknown.

Fibers can differ as to type (e.g., rayon, cotton), color, shape, size, microscopic features (e.g., presence of delustering agents, voids) and optical properties (e.g., refractive index, sign of elongation). There are characteristics that may associate fibers with a group of items, but never to a single item to the exclusion of all others. However, even fibers with many similar properties may be excluded as originating from the same source by using the identical analytical methods.

The characteristics present in fibers are used as comparison criteria. When all of the characteristics present in a recovered fiber are the same as in a potential source, the possibility that the compared fibers originated from the same source cannot be excluded. Consequently, the recovered fibers are consistent with originating from the known source, or from another source comprised of fibers that exhibit the same microscopic characteristics and optical properties.

The inability to associate persons/items through a microscopic hair/fiber examination does not necessarily mean the persons/items of interest had no contact. A number of factors can produce this result, including: 1) Hair/fiber evidence may not have transferred. 2) Hairs/fibers that did transfer may have been lost prior to submission to the laboratory. 3) The hairs/fibers transferred or the known sample submitted may not be representative of the source. 4) The hairs/fibers may be from a different source.

The results of the trace evidence (hair) examinations are included in this report.

Methods:

Results of Examinations:

The previously-reported (FBI Laboratory Report dated August 22, 2014) head hair which exhibits Caucasian characteristics and Negroid head hairs found on Item 11 are microscopically dissimilar to the Item 37 known head hair sample; accordingly, based on the known hair sample, Darren Wilson cannot be included as a possible source of these hairs.

Hairs may be characterized and classified according to their morphology. The first step is determining whether the hair is of human or animal (non-human) origin. Animal hairs may be further classified as to the type of hair (e.g., fur, guard) and the type of animal (e.g., dog, cat). Human hairs may be further examined for characteristics of Ancestry and somatic origin (body area). Human hairs can exhibit Caucasian (European Ancestry), Negroid (African Ancestry) and/or Mongoloid (Asian or Native American Ancestry) characteristics. Ancestral group classifications are based on characteristics which are typically observed in hairs from individuals of different ancestral groups and may or may not correspond with how an individual identifies his or her race. Body area classifications are based on the macroscopic and microscopic characteristics which are typically observed in hairs from different areas of the body.

AN APPLICATION FOR A SEARCH WARRANT

I, a Special Agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), b6

b7c

United States Department of Justice, being first duly sworn, hereby depose and state as follows:

INTRODUCTION AND AGENT BACKGROUND

1. I make this affidavit in support of an application for a search warrant for information associated with a certain Facebook user ID that is stored at premises owned, maintained, controlled, or operated by Facebook Inc. ("Facebook"), a social networking company headquartered in Menlo Park, California. The information to be searched is described in the following paragraphs and in Attachment A. This affidavit is made in support of an application for a search warrant under 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(a), 2703(b)(1)(A) and 2703(c)(1)(A) to require Facebook to disclose to the government records and other information in its possession, pertaining to the subscriber or customer associated with the user ID.

2. I am an investigative or law enforcement officer of the United States who is empowered by law to conduct investigations of and to make arrests for offenses enumerated in 19 U.S.C. § 2516. I am a Special Agent with the FBI and have been since February 2011. I am currently assigned to the Public Corruption/Civil Rights Squad in the St. Louis Division of the FBI and have been assigned investigations involving color of law and other federal violations. I have received extensive training and experience in crimes associated with color of law and the violations of the federal statutes related to civil rights matters. I have also received training regarding the use of the internet and digital communications as they pertain to federal civil rights investigations.

3. The facts in this affidavit come from my personal observations, my training and experience, and information obtained from other agents and witnesses. This affidavit is intended to show merely that there is sufficient probable cause for the requested warrant and does not set forth all of my knowledge about this matter.

4. Based on my training and experience and the facts as set forth in this affidavit, there is probable cause to believe the Facebook account in question may contain relevant information regarding the investigation of possible violations of 18 U.S.C. § 242 by Officer Darren Wilson of the Ferguson Police Department. More specifically, there is probable cause to search the information described in Attachment A for evidence as to whether a crime was committed, as described in Attachment B.

PROBABLE CAUSE

5. On August 8, 2014, Officer Darren Wilson shot and killed Michael Brown, an 18-year old male, in Ferguson, Missouri, within the Eastern District of Missouri. Minutes before the fatal shooting, Officer Wilson encountered Brown, and his friend [REDACTED] who had just come from nearby Ferguson Market, where Brown stole cigarillos and assaulted the store clerk. As a result of that, a dispatch call went out for a "stealing in progress." Officer Wilson first saw Brown and [REDACTED] as Officer Wilson was driving westbound on Canfield Drive, and Brown and

b6

[redacted] were walking in the opposite direction, in the middle of the street. Officer Wilson told Brown and [redacted] to use the sidewalk. There was an exchange between Officer Wilson and Brown that led to a physical altercation between the two of them at the window of the patrol vehicle. As a result, Officer Wilson discharged his firearm. Brown then ran from the vehicle and Officer Wilson chased after him. Brown turned back toward Officer Wilson. Ultimately, Officer Wilson fatally shot Brown.

To establish a violation of 18 U.S.C § 242, the United States must prove the following elements beyond a reasonable doubt: (1) that the defendant acted under color of law; (2) that the defendant deprived the victim of his Constitution right to be free from unreasonable force, stemming from the Fourth Amendment right to be free from unreasonable seizure; (3) that the defendant acted willfully, and (4) that the offense resulted in bodily injury. The criminal civil rights investigation is focused on whether Officer Wilson used unreasonable force and whether he did so willfully.

Several witnesses, including Officer Wilson, have described a confrontation within the driver's side window between Officer Wilson and Brown. To date, medical and physical evidence corroborate that Brown assaulted Officer Wilson through the window of his patrol vehicle before Officer Wilson fired shots. Officer Wilson's treating physician's assistant and medical records from within hours of the shooting confirm that Officer Wilson sustained contusions on his right jaw, among other injuries. The Armed Forces Medical Examiner ("AFME") noted during Brown's autopsy that Brown had abrasions on the knuckles of both hands. This evidence is consistent with Officer Wilson's statement to law enforcement that Brown punched Officer Wilson in the jaw and otherwise assaulted him.

Officer Wilson stated to federal and local law enforcement that in response to being struck, Officer Wilson retrieved his gun and told Brown to stop. According to Officer Wilson, Brown attempted to gain control of the gun by placing his hand on the gun and over Officer Wilson's hand. Officer Wilson stated that a struggle ensued over the gun, culminating in Officer Wilson's firing a shot. Crime scene technicians recovered a bullet from the driver's side door in the same location Officer Wilson described. Brown sustained a gunshot wound to his right thumb consistent with Officer Wilson's description of the struggle. Analysis of human blood found on the gun revealed a DNA mixture that is 2.1 octillion times more likely to be the DNA of Officer Wilson and Brown than Officer Wilson and any other individual. Brown is also the source of DNA found in blood on the interior driver's side door of the patrol vehicle.

Witness accounts, thus far, vary as to what happened after Brown ran from the police vehicle and Officer Wilson chased him. Several witnesses stated that Officer Wilson shot Brown in the back as he was running away. However, the autopsy conducted by both the AFME and the St. Louis County Medical Examiner belie those accounts because Brown did not sustain gunshot wounds to the back. Other witnesses stated that Brown had his hands up in surrender when he turned back toward Officer Wilson, though accounts vary as to the position of Brown's hands, i.e. whether Brown had his hands straight up, at 90 degree angles, or down by his sides. Other witnesses stated that Brown charged at or moved toward Officer Wilson, and did not have his hands up. Rather his hands were at his side, in a running position, or near his waistband. These witnesses described that Officer Wilson fired shots at Brown only as Brown moved toward Officer Wilson.

Brown is the source of DNA found in blood stains found about 20 feet past where his body came to rest, indicating that Brown turned around and came back toward Officer Wilson.

The St. Louis County Medical Examiner's medicolegal investigator, who documented the condition of Brown's body as it was found, documented that Brown's left arm was underneath his body and his left hand was in his waistband. This is consistent with Officer Wilson's statement that Brown put his hand in his waistband as he was approaching Officer Wilson.

To determine the reasonableness of Officer Wilson's use of force, the FBI must investigate whether Officer Wilson could have reasonably perceived Brown to be a physical threat at the time Officer Wilson used force. To further determine the viability of a potential violation of section 242, specifically regarding the unreasonable force element, the FBI must also obtain evidence regarding Brown's reputation for peacefulness or lack thereof.

The FBI conducted a public Facebook search and found a posting by Brown on August 3, 2014, just six days before the confrontation with Officer Wilson, in which Brown wrote to a friend that he would "see [him] soon." (Exhibit A) This friend had recently committed suicide. Brown's post may suggest that he was contemplating suicide or planning his own death.

The account holder, Michael Brown, is deceased, and Michael Brown's [REDACTED] [REDACTED] has executed written consent to search this account (Exhibit B). Nonetheless, Facebook, Inc., has stated that it requires a search warrant to search this account.

6. Facebook owns and operates a free-access social networking website of the same name that can be accessed at <http://www.facebook.com>. Facebook allows its users to establish accounts with Facebook, and users can then use their accounts to share written news, photographs, videos, and other information with other Facebook users, and sometimes with the general public.

7. Facebook asks users to provide basic contact and personal identifying information to Facebook, either during the registration process or thereafter. This information may include the user's full name, birth date, gender, contact e-mail addresses, Facebook passwords, Facebook security questions and answers (for password retrieval), physical address (including city, state, and zip code), telephone numbers, screen names, websites, and other personal identifiers.

Facebook also assigns a user identification number to each account.

8. Facebook users may join one or more groups or networks to connect and interact with other users who are members of the same group or network. Facebook assigns a group identification number to each group. A Facebook user can also connect directly with individual Facebook users by sending each user a "Friend Request." If the recipient of a "Friend Request" accepts the request, then the two users will become "Friends" for purposes of Facebook and can exchange communications or view information about each other. Each Facebook user's account includes a list of that user's "Friends" and a "News Feed," which highlights information about the user's "Friends," such as profile changes, upcoming events, and birthdays.

9. Facebook users can select different levels of privacy for the communications and information associated with their Facebook accounts. By adjusting these privacy settings, a Facebook user can make information available only to himself or herself, to particular Facebook users, or to anyone with access to the Internet, including people who are not Facebook users. A Facebook user can also create "lists" of Facebook friends to facilitate the application of these privacy settings. Facebook accounts also include other account settings that users can adjust to control, for example, the types of notifications they receive from Facebook.

10. Facebook users can create profiles that include photographs, lists of personal interests, and other information. Facebook users can also post "status" updates about their whereabouts and actions, as well as links to videos, photographs, articles, and other items available elsewhere on the Internet. Facebook users can also post information about upcoming “events,” such as social occasions, by listing the event’s time, location, host, and guest list. In addition, Facebook users can “check in” to particular locations or add their geographic locations to their Facebook posts, thereby revealing their geographic locations at particular dates and times. A particular user’s profile page also includes a “Wall,” which is a space where the user and his or her “Friends” can post messages, attachments, and links that will typically be visible to anyone who can view the user’s profile.

11. Facebook allows users to upload photos and videos. It also provides users the ability to “tag” (i.e., label) other Facebook users in a photo or video. When a user is tagged in a photo or video, he or she receives a notification of the tag and a link to see the photo or video. For Facebook’s purposes, the photos and videos associated with a user’s account will include all photos and videos uploaded by that user that have not been deleted, as well as all photos and videos uploaded by any user that have that user tagged in them.

12. Facebook users can exchange private messages on Facebook with other users. These messages, which are similar to e-mail messages, are sent to the recipient’s “Inbox” on Facebook, which also stores copies of messages sent by the recipient, as well as other information. Facebook users can also post comments on the Facebook profiles of other users or on their own profiles; such comments are typically associated with a specific posting or item on the profile. In addition, Facebook has a Chat feature that allows users to send and receive instant messages through Facebook. These chat communications are stored in the chat history for the account. Facebook also has a Video Calling feature, and although Facebook does not record the calls themselves, it does keep records of the date of each call.

13. If a Facebook user does not want to interact with another user on Facebook, the first user can “block” the second user from seeing his or her account.

14. Facebook has a “like” feature that allows users to give positive feedback or connect to particular pages. Facebook users can “like” Facebook posts or updates, as well as webpages or content on third-party (i.e., non-Facebook) websites. Facebook users can also become “fans” of particular Facebook pages.

15. Facebook has a search function that enables its users to search Facebook for keywords, usernames, or pages, among other things.

16. Each Facebook account has an activity log, which is a list of the user’s posts and other Facebook activities from the inception of the account to the present. The activity log includes stories and photos that the user has been tagged in, as well as connections made through the account, such as “liking” a Facebook page or adding someone as a friend. The activity log is visible to the user but cannot be viewed by people who visit the user’s Facebook page.

17. Facebook Notes is a blogging feature available to Facebook users, and it enables users to write and post notes or personal web logs (“blogs”), or to import their blogs from other services, such as Xanga, LiveJournal, and Blogger.

18. The Facebook Gifts feature allows users to send virtual “gifts” to their friends that appear as icons on the recipient’s profile page. Gifts cost money to purchase, and a personalized message can be attached to each gift. Facebook users can also send each other “pokes,” which are free and simply result in a notification to the recipient that he or she has been “poked” by the sender.

19. Facebook also has a Marketplace feature, which allows users to post free classified ads. Users can post items for sale, housing, jobs, and other items on the Marketplace.

20. In addition to the applications described above, Facebook also provides its users with access to thousands of other applications on the Facebook platform. When a Facebook user accesses or uses one of these applications, an update about the user's access or use of that application may appear on the user's profile page.

21. Facebook uses the term "Neoprint" to describe an expanded view of a given user profile. The "Neoprint" for a given user can include the following information from the user's profile: profile contact information; News Feed information; status updates; links to videos, photographs, articles, and other items; Notes; Wall postings; friend lists, including the friends' Facebook user identification numbers; groups and networks of which the user is a member, including the groups' Facebook group identification numbers; future and past event postings; rejected "Friend" requests; comments; gifts; pokes; tags; and information about the user's access and use of Facebook applications.

22. Facebook also retains Internet Protocol ("IP") logs for a given user ID or IP address. These logs may contain information about the actions taken by the user ID or IP address on Facebook, including information about the type of action, the date and time of the action, and the user ID and IP address associated with the action. For example, if a user views a Facebook profile, that user's IP log would reflect the fact that the user viewed the profile, and would show when and from what IP address the user did so.

23. Social networking providers like Facebook typically retain additional information about their users' accounts, such as information about the length of service (including start date), the types of service utilized, and the means and source of any payments associated with the service (including any credit card or bank account number). In some cases, Facebook users may communicate directly with Facebook about issues relating to their accounts, such as technical problems, billing inquiries, or complaints from other users. Social networking providers like Facebook typically retain records about such communications, including records of contacts between the user and the provider's support services, as well as records of any actions taken by the provider or user as a result of the communications.

24. Therefore, the computers of Facebook are likely to contain all the material described above, including stored electronic communications and information concerning subscribers and their use of Facebook, such as account access information, transaction information, and other account information.

INFORMATION TO BE SEARCHED AND THINGS TO BE SEIZED

25. I anticipate executing this warrant under the Electronic Communications Privacy Act, in particular 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(a), 2703(b)(1)(A) and 2703(c)(1)(A), by using the warrant to require Facebook to disclose to the government copies of the records and other information (including the content of communications) particularly described in Section I of Attachment B. Upon receipt of the information described in Section I of Attachment B, government-authorized persons will review that information to locate the items described in Section II of Attachment B.

CONCLUSION

26. The account holder, Michael Brown, is deceased, and Michael Brown's [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] has executed written consent to search this account (Exhibit B).

Nonetheless, Facebook, Inc., has stated that it requires a search warrant to search this account.

27. This affidavit, the accompanying application, and the requested search warrant were all reviewed by Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) [REDACTED] Eastern District of Missouri and Trial Attorney [REDACTED] U.S. Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, Criminal Section, prior to being submitted to the court. AUSA [REDACTED] and Trial Attorney [REDACTED] informed me that in their opinion, the affidavit and application are legally and factually sufficient to establish probable cause to support the issuance of the requested warrant.

28. Based on the forgoing, I request that the Court issue the proposed search warrant.

29. This Court has jurisdiction to issue the requested warrant because it is “a court of competent jurisdiction” as defined by 18 U.S.C. § 2711. 18 U.S.C. §§ 2703(a), (b)(1)(A) & (c)(1)(A). Specifically, the Court is “a district court of the United States . . . that – has jurisdiction over the offense being investigated.” 18 U.S.C. § 2711(3)(A)(i).

30. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2703(g), the presence of a law enforcement officer is not required for the service or execution of this warrant.

MOTION FOR ORDER PRECLUDING FACEBOOK FROM GIVING NOTICE

31. The government requests, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2705(b), that Facebook be ordered not to disclose the existence or service of the search and seizure warrant to the subscriber, customer, the news media, or any other person, except as required to disclose to the Facebook’s officers, employees, or agents to the extent necessary to comply with the warrant. The basis of this motion is that providing notification of the existence of the warrant may result in the endangerment of the life or physical safety of an individual, the destruction of or tampering with evidence, intimidation of potential witnesses, and otherwise seriously jeopardize the investigation.

REQUEST FOR SEALING

32. I further request that the Court order that all papers in support of this application, including the affidavit and search warrant, be sealed until further order of the Court. These documents discuss an ongoing criminal investigation that is not public. Accordingly, there is good cause to seal these documents because their premature disclosure may seriously jeopardize that investigation.
