On January 4, 2005, Special Agent [redacted] [redacted] conducted the following investigation in Twinsburg, Ohio:

b6
b7c

Pursuant to a lead concerning the "Manuel Gehring" case, SA [redacted] checked out an area on Chamberlin Road in Twinsburg, Ohio, as a potential burial site for the Gehring children. SA [redacted] traveled South on Chamberlin Road off of Route 82 (Aurora Road) for an approximate distance of 2 miles until Chamberlin Road became a dead-end at Highland Road. While traveling South on Chamberlin Road, SA [redacted] observed a wooded area, a UAW Hall, an electric power substation and a small industrial building, on the West-side of the road. After turning around and traveling North on Chamberlin Road, SA [redacted] observed a wooded area, a railroad switching yard and a large Chrysler Stamping Plant, on the East-side of the road. While traveling North and South on Chamberlin Road, SA [redacted] did not observe any obvious signs of the burial site "landmarks" previously provided to investigators by Manuel Gehring.

Facts of Complaint On 6/3/05, the Toledo RA received a letter from [Redacted] Director of Court Services, Findlay Municipal Court, Findlay, OH. [Redacted] was providing information he had received from [Redacted] about an area that seemed to match the general description of the burial site, as provided by subject Gehring. [Redacted] reported that the closed facility known as Hyway Concrete, 2615 Crystal Avenue, Findlay, OH, had many of the known descriptors, except the distance from the turnpike. This facility had been closed some time prior to 7/03, and the indicators were present at that time. [Redacted] reported a high fence, rustic buildings, broken round things sitting about. Prior to closing, Hyway Concrete produced the cement tiles that run under roadbeds. [Redacted] reported that within the general time span of the search for the children, Hyway Concrete facility had both intact and broken tiles of various sizes strewn about the property. That, in addition to the high fence, and rustic buildings, and the lack of movement at the closed facility, led [redacted] to suspect the bodies might be buried at that location.

Mr. [redacted] reports, that Crystal Avenue, while now developing, was at the pertinent time frame, 7/03, was on the outskirts of Findlay. Within 5-6 miles of two exits off of I-75 (St. Rt. 224, and TR 99). Beach took the liberty of digitally photographing the facility as it looked on 6/3/05. From the placard on the front gate, it appears that the property is under the custody and/or control of Trinity Wireless Towers, Inc. with telephone (888-485-4744).

Letter and photographs of [redacted] are being attached to this FD-71.

b7C

On July 28, 2005, SA [redacted] Lima Resident Agency, located and walked through the closed facility formerly known as Hyway Concrete, 2615 Crystal Avenue, Findlay, OH. Although similar in general description, several major discrepancies would seem to rule this site out as the burial site of captioned victims.

Discrepancies between the Findlay site and captioned subject's description of the burial site include:

1. The entrance to this site is approximately 300 feet from the road.
2. This site contained hundreds of cement cylinders, from two foot in diameter to ten foot in diameter, none of which were standing on end.
3. The fence on the property was four feet in height.
4. An old fashioned hand lever-operated water pump could not be located on the property.
5. The property and all adjacent properties have no embankments.
6. This site is nearly 40 miles south of I-80.
7. Familiarity with Findlay, Ohio is necessary to locate this site.

Nothing further for this tip.

[redacted] informed the descriptive indicators he recalled as put forth on the media were, a location off of the turnpike, high fence, rustic buildings, broken round things sitting about. With the exception of the distance from the turnpike, all of these indicators were present at a then closed facility on the out skirts of Findlay called Hyway concrete, located at 2615 Crystal Ave Findlay, Ohio. Prior to closing, Hyway Concrete produced the cement tiles that run under roadbeds, such as on interstate highways. According to [redacted] within the same general time span of the search for the boys, the Hyway Concrete facility had both intact and broken tiles of various sizes strewn about the property. On 7/8/2005, SA [redacted] again drove to the location and contacted [redacted] his cell phone in order to obtain a better description of the suspected burial site. [redacted] informed SA [redacted] that the location was approximately half way down Mescher Road, about 500 yards south of Airport Highway on the right-hand side and approximately 70 feet behind an embankment. SA [redacted] proceeded to the area further described by [redacted] and did not observe many of the items listed in Gehring's description of the burial site.

I recently read in the news about the suspected burial site of the Gehring children and while I have no information as to the areas already searched, the specifics mentioned sounded vaguely familiar and I wanted to bring one area to your attention. There is an area off Mescher Rd approx 500yards south from Airport Hwy in Springfield Twp. It seems to have a lot in common with Mr. Gehring's recollection of the burial site. There is a grassy area that has the following, stones used for drainage, round concrete, large flat pieces of concrete laying flat on the ground, a "dumping area", a large yellow or tan metal building close to the location, there is a large mound of earth with the sides somewhat eroding where a vehicle would be hidden from the street, large shade trees with branches that reach the ground, not far from this location, along Airport Hwy, there is a rectangular pumping station that is fenced in that has green painted handles. Myself and a friend went to this location today at approx 2pm and when we walked behind the large earth mound there appeared to be an area of earth that looked somewhat out of place, there was little if any vegetation growth on it, it was approx 5 by 3 and there was a bit of a hump to it, as if someone had dug it out, placed something in it and then covered it up. We did not want to disturb this area with any attempt to dig and thought that contacting your office would be the best thing to do. If there is any other information that I can provide please contact me at the mobile # below.

On 7/8/2005, SA [redacted] telephoned [redacted] for additional information. Thereafter, he drove to the area of Lime City Road and State Route 20/23 in Perrysburg Township as further described by [redacted]. State Rt 20/23 is a very busy, two-lane highway that branches into a four-lane highway near this intersection, which ultimately intersects with U.S. Interstate 75.

Within approximately 400 yards from the intersection described by [redacted] are the Perrysburg Township Fire and Police Departments. Observation of the location did not reveal any cover-providing objects to shield a vehicle or individual from plain view (such as the tall, wild grass, embankment, or tall shade trees described by Manuel Gehring). The area was also absent other identifying objects described by Gehring such as an old-style, lever-operated water pump, and a mound of white/gray rocks. There is also a busy U-haul business and a residence within 30 yards of the described location.

This general area was covered during the five mile radius search of exits 52 and 59 of the Ohio Turnpike, on 9/2-9/3/2003. The search also encompassed this portion of exit 64.

Another indicator pointed out by [] is some raised earth mixed with stones that is along the RR tracks at the South end of the D Street. It proved to not be a grave, but gravel and earth piled about ten inches taller than the surrounding grade near some outdated railroad ties that were also dumped there.

The area searched by [] and Det. [] at the end of D Street would be the access used by railroad repair personnel and was, at one time, something of a "lover's lane" for local teenagers. Det. [] was familiar with the area prior to the search and now found it largely abandoned by all save the RR personnel. There were three separate piles of gravel that had been dumped there to prevent anyone from going into the wheat fields with a vehicle. These piles would measure approximately 10' at their base, and 5' - 6' tall. They appeared to have been dumped there within the past 6 months. Naturally, there were a number of RR tracks running through the area with only one still being used. Unused tracks would have, some time ago, gone to businesses that no longer use trains to ship their goods. There were so many Poplar trees in the vicinity that they were too numerous to count, rendering them virtually insignificant. Det. [] found no unusual patterns in the earth around any of the trees that they checked./ The closest metal fence to the area is approximately 100+ yards away from most of the search area. One could see at least 4 "yellow" buildings within 1/2 mile distance of the search area.

After [] dropped [] off, she commented that she was not now as convinced as she had been that the children were buried in her area of concern. She stated "Well, I guess I have played Detective now for a day!"

Based on the above inconsistencies with the details of the alleged burial site, this tip is infeasible.

Regarding the search for the Gehring children's graves:

On 7-19-05 I met the reporting person listed below at the Chili's restaurant parking lot on Route 20 in Rossford. She went as my passenger to where she believed the case indicators were the strongest which was at the end of D Street in Ampoint Industrial Park in Perrysburg Township. The area was near the CSX Railroad access to the Park as it enters from the South. The area is largely overgrown with adjacent standing wheat fields.

The indicators that the reporting person related to, on her own, was a "pump" which is located along the West side of Oregon Road approximately fifty yards North of the intersection of First Street in the Northeast corner of Ampoint Park. . The "pump" is actually a Columbia Gas connection (with the usual green box attached) that was once connected to a business that has been gone for several years and was gone at the time of the burials. Another indicator pointed out by the reporting person is some raised earth mixed with stones that is along the RR tracks at the South end of D Street. It proved to not be a grave but gravel and earth piled about ten inches taller than the surrounding earth near some outdated railroad ties that were also dumped there.

The area searched by the reporting person and myself, at the end of D Street would be the access used by railroad repair personnel and was, at one time, something of a "lover's lane" type of area where local teenagers used to have parties. I was familiar with the area prior to the search and now found it to be have been largely abandoned by everyone but the railroad personnel. There were three seperate piles of gravel that had been dumped there to prevent anyone from going into the wheat fields with a vehicle. These piles would measure approximately ten feet wide at their bases and perhaps five or six feet in height. They appeared to have been dumped there within the past six months. Naturally there were a number of RR tracks running through the area with only one still being used. Unused tracks would have, some time ago, gone to businesses that no longer use trains to ship their goods. There were so many Poplar trees in the vicinity that they were too numerous to count. We found no unusual patterns to the earth around any of the trees that we checked. The closest metal fence to the area would have been perhaps one hundred plus yards away from most of the search area. One could see at least 4 "yellow" buildings within a half mile distance of the search area.

After the search I dropped the reporting person off. Her comment, after I thanked her for her willingness to participate, was that she was not now as convinced as she had been that the children were buried in her area of concern. She stated, "Well, I guess I have played Detective now for a day."

The search did not yield any location worthy of future search or excavation.

SA [] viewed the contents of the envelope, which included a hand-drawn map indicating that Gehring threw the bench seat of his van over the Maumee-Perrysburg bridge into the Maumee River below. This is inconsistent with the information provided by Gehring in 2003. The anonymous letter, postmarked Boston, MA, contained a notation that Gehring's van was spotted in Toledo, Ohio. Given the generic nature of the information provided, the fact that said information is not supported by the information provided by Gehring, and the lack of definitive intelligence, such as a sighting of Gehring disposing of the bench over the Maumee River, this lead lacks credibility at this time. Without specific, articulable reports that Gehring was observed throwing the seat into the Maumee River, water recovery efforts will not be undertaken at this point.

Nothing further for this tip. The original letter and map have been placed in a 1A envelope and attached to this report.

A mother's search for closure brings her to Northeast Ohio

BOSTON HEIGHTS — Two years after Teri Knight's ex-husband murdered their son and daughter, she is traveling a 650-mile route along Interstate 80 in search of their bodies.

The search area is vast — from Iowa City, Iowa, to Grove City, Pa. But her resolve is strong. The New Hampshire woman's quest brought her to Northeast Ohio this past weekend.

Manuel Gehring confessed to shooting the children and burying them somewhere off the interstate. He tried to show authorities where he buried the bodies but could not. He committed suicide in prison in February 2004.

Knight and her husband, Jim, are following clues Gehring gave police. The Knights, who live in New Hampshire, married three weeks before Gehring killed Sarah, 14, and Philip, 11, in 2003.

Gehring told police he drove off an exit near a Route 8 and buried the bodies near a water pump and a wire fence, in tall grass, not far from a yellow or tan commercial building, some large shade trees similar to willow trees and an irregular-shaped concrete slab.

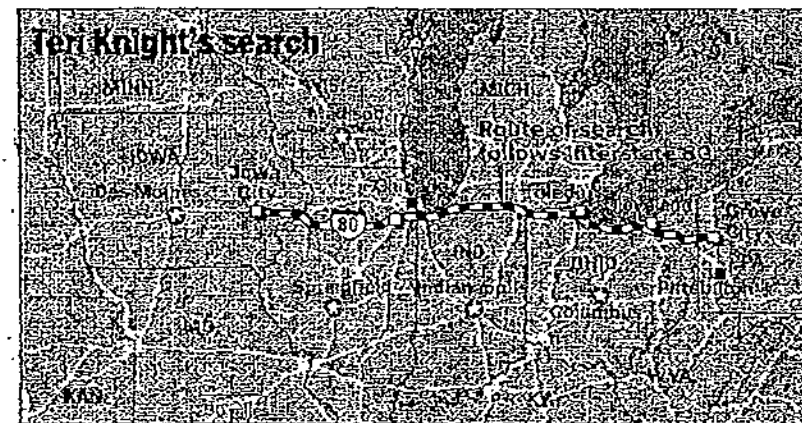

"We see landmarks in different areas that reinforce some of the beliefs that we had about the area," Knight said Sunday afternoon, while searching near the interstate and side roads around Akron.

The couple received moral and tactical support from local residents

Facts of Complaint This anonymous tip came through a fax from the Toledo P.D. Caller states that her husband golfs at the Riverby Golf Club, in Perrysburg. 4, and 6 (not 5) come together. From that location a green hand pump was located, however it is on the open golf course, between holes 3 and 4. There is a farmer's field outside of the golf course confines, however, only a single, sagging cable delineates the property line. The tan barn, believed to be the one referred to in this tip, is located on King Road, off of St. Rt. 65. No access road or path to this area was observed, other than via the playing surface of the golf course.

For the above reasons, this location is inconsistent with the descriptors of the burial site as provided by Gehring. Further, no indications of a grave site were located.

At the time of the disappearance, they were widening the roadway and doing sewer work on Rt. 25. Location is the southwest corner of Roachton Road and S.R. 25 behind the Maggies restaurant. There were large concrete cylinders setting in the field behind this location in 2003. On 7/13/05, SAs [redacted] [redacted] accompanied by Det. [redacted] Perrysburg Township P.D., checked this area with negative results. The location is question was created numerous years ago when an excavating company began dumping used asphalt and other roadway materials along St. Rt. 25. This area has become overgrown with shrubbery and grasses. There is a "wind barrier" (a 4' to 5' pile of soil, gravel, stone, sticks) running along the entire side of this area which would prohibit vehicular entry to same. For these reasons, this is not a viable site.

that he received a similar tip from [redacted]

[redacted] Sometime in or around July, 2003, [redacted] noticed a green minivan backed into this Stitt Road/Russell Road area usually frequented by hunters and dog trainers. She did not notice a front license plate.

[redacted] noticed a man, possibly Hispanic/Mexican, in the area of the van, and she thought that he resembled the picture of GEHRING aired by the news media. She could not provide any further information as her observations were mere recollections of what she saw about 1 year ago. She reported the gas pump/head in the fenced in area at the corner of Stitt and Russell, and the beige Johns-Manville plant nearby.

Sgt. [redacted] advised that there is a drainage ditch in close proximity to this area. In the summer of 2003, drainage tiles/concrete sewer lines and piles of white drainage stone dotted the area during installation of same. However, these cylinders and stone have been installed and no evidence of same remains.

On 8/23/04, writer, Sgt. [redacted] Det. [redacted] and officers of the Maumee Police Department conducted a foot search of the area and two areas were located, one with a single bone, and one with numerous bones including teeth/jaw scattered on the ground surface. An effort was made to penetrate the ground in these areas to determine its level of compactness. However, within 1 inch below the surface, the ground was incredibly hard. A decision was made to bring a cadaver canine to the scene before any additional investigation was conducted.

b7C

On 8/24/04, the above individuals were accompanied by [redacted] Lake Township Police, her K-9 [redacted] and Det. [redacted] Oregon Police Department and his K-9 [redacted] to the site. [redacted] and subsequently [redacted] did not alert on either location with the bones, a preliminary indication, according to Clark, that the bones were not human remains.

b7C

SA [redacted] collected the single bone, which was approximately 12' long. Contact was then made with Dr. [redacted] and [redacted] Forensic Anthropologists with the Lucas County Coroner's Office. The [redacted] were attending a conference in St. Louis, and requested that digital photographs be taken of the bone and sent via facsimile to them at the Adams Mark Hotel. Upon receipt of the faxes, Dr. [redacted] advised that the bone was not human, and most probably a deer bone.

Nothing further investigation will be conducted for this lead.

On 8/9/04, writer received calls from both television stations mentioned above, regarding a tip they received that date from a citizen, [redacted] apparently personally visited each station and told them she thought she found the burial site for the GEHRING children. that SA [] did speak with her last year in response to her tip. At that time, [] was thanked for her call, and advised that the area she was reporting had been searched several times by the Fulton County Sheriff's Office with negative results.

Ms [] informed SA [] that she found the spot using logic, in that there are not many locations with old hand-pump water pumps. She thought it would most likely be located at an old homestead site, or a primitive road side rest stop. She referred to an old map of Ohio, and personally visited the primitive rest stops noted, including the one mentioned. She offered to accompany writer to the spot in question. Additionally, [] said she visited this park numerous times in search of the grave site, most recently 8/7/04. In this visit, she took her lawn shears and probed the ground in several spots, noting that there appeared to be the outline of a shovel. She noted there were clumps of grass lying on top of this "loosened" ground.

b7c

The following morning, 8/10/04, SA [] met Deputy [] Fulton County S.O. and walked the rest stop using [] description of the site. In fact, writer contacted [] via telephone while in the park for further clarification of the exact spot. As [] was making statements, SA [] repeated them to [] all within hearing distance of []. Once at the spot believed [] was referring to, the conversation was terminated.

Sometime after this conversation, but between 8/10/04 and 8/13/04, [] went back to the site. Thereafter, she telephoned the news media again and notified them that the FBI had missed the spot by 3 feet and that she dug in the correct area and noticed a terrible smell. This precipitated a call from the news to the Toledo FBI on 8/13/04.

b7c

It is the opinion of SA [] and Deputy [] that for several reasons, this rest stop does not meet the available description of the burial site. First, no hand pump is visible at the location. On one of her visits to this park, [] located a pipe sticking out of the ground near the rear maintenance building, but admittedly said that the suspected burial site is not near this building at all. Further, no stacked wood pile, cement cylinders, or pile of white drainage stone were located. There is a cement slab, however it is approximately 12' x 15" in size. Dep. [] recalled that there may have been a shelter house or picnic area on this site in the past. There is a paved path a portion of the way into the park, which divides into two separate stone/gravel paths. One leads in to an area used by the Fulton County Maintenance Department or ODOT as a storage facility for large piles of dirt and removed road surface. The other enters a bit further than the first, and is separated from the back edge of the park by a grassy area. The entrance to the park is closed with a locked gate, however, there is evidence that vehicles drive around the fence. It appears that the grass is mowed routinely and the driving surface is flat without any embankments, or drainage ditches to cross. Should a vehicle be parked on the roadway between the grassy area and the cement slab/foundation, it would clearly be visible from State Route 20, and the road side parking lot.

In response to [redacted] statement about the smell, it is noted that during the telephone conversation with SA [redacted] on 8/10/04, [redacted] stated there were two deer carcasses in the grassy area, however, she did not notice a smell because her "nose doesn't work so good anymore".

b7c

In that this site is not consistent with the available description of the burial site provided by GEHRING, this lead is considered covered and no further resources will be expended.

having the bodies with him as he searched for a burial site around Akron, Ohio and State Route 8. No further investigation required for this lead.

A review of the Ohio map, shows that Tappan Lake is located in Harrison County, on State Route 250, northwest of the city of Cadiz. Given that this area is over 60 miles from the Ohio turnpike, it is quite unlikely that the burial site will be located in this area.

Facts of Complaint On 7/25/05, [Redacted] called to report 2 mounds of dirt, about 1 foot above grade, located at the back of her property, accessed by driving down a grassy lane between her property and that of a neighbor's farm. She believes this farm was planted in corn or beans in 2003. Ottawa Road is in the Wood County portion of Genoa, between Bradner and Fostoria Roads. She and her father began digging in the piles, and found a man's rubber mud boot, a tube sock, and a shopping bag with writing on it thanking the shopper for shopping at some unrecalled location in Texas. Having found these items, [Redacted] ceased digging. Neither [Redacted] or her neighbor, [Redacted] dumped any such piles of soil.

At the time in question, there was a pile of stones at this location, however it has since been spread out to make the [redacted] driveway. She called the stones, "screenings" less than 1 inch in diameter. There is a wood pile, but it consists of full tree trunks, none of which are weathered gray. [redacted] reports that a new blue hand operated lever pump has been installed on the west side of the barn, (Fall 2002), and there is no presence of a rusty green pump of any kind. There is a 4' very old wire fence, with big squares pattern. There are no concrete cylinders and the only concrete slab is used as a sidewalk by [redacted] near her house. It is "flagstone", measuring 4X4, and is used everyday.

This location is not visible from her residence, and abuts a tree line. The mounds of dirt are 10-15 feet from the corner of the tree line and the lane. The lane is accessed directly off of Ottawa Road. [redacted] residence is to the left of the lane, and Recker's field is to the right.

[redacted] recognizes that this location does not match many of the alleged descriptors of the burial site, but is concerned about the mounds.

On 7/29/05, SA [redacted] met [redacted] at her residence, [redacted]. The mounds of dirt are located at the front of a wooded area, about 5 feet off of Ottawa Road. [redacted] explained that her father recently cut down much of the dense shrubbery which had somewhat obscured the mounds of dirt from view. The boot and sock were located about 20' deeper into the woods. Bright green and red carpet strands were located about 30' from the mounds of dirt. Upon closer inspection, the mounds of dirt were compact and contained embedded roots and sticks. They were about 8' apart. [redacted] said that she obtained a copy of the transcript of Gehring's interview, in which he said he buried the children on top of each other.

After reading the entire 100+ page transcript, she was convinced that the children's grave are in Pennsylvania. [redacted] and her parents then drove to Pennsylvania and spent one day driving the small roads around Grove City, PA. She noted that there is a Rt. 8 near Grove City, and that may be where Gehring remembers getting lost. Further, she said that Gehring reported "wild violets" growing around the burial site. She said that yellow violets were very prevalent around the areas they drove.

[redacted] said that she gets "worked up" over things like this, and noted that when "9/11" happened, she was consumed by it for months. She said "I probably should be on medication."

Nothing further for this tip/lead.

parking lot. There are several additional out-buildings of various sizes co-located on this property, including a port-a-john. Several piles of "firewood" were observed, however, they are about 5'-6' foot long tree limbs. A rusty old wire fence sets about 10' deep into the denser woods. There are several cement slabs, however, one is a basketball court. The ground is covered with pine needles and dried leaves, and there is little or no ground cover. field that has collapsed from age and it has a short iron pipe, perhaps 2' tall protruding from the top of the "box". The pipe is approximately 8" in diameter and very rusty. It appears to have been a smoke stack of some type. Det. [] looked into the cement box and saw rubbish and small debris. The box is approx. 8' x 4' x 3' tall. Further back into the field a brush pile is visible, consisting of 10' long tree branches and small bushes obviously hauled from a different location. Det. [] noted "interesting" places on the ground where the tall grass is altered by what may be underneath. Det. [] searched the area, and believes that there is gravel in these places that has caused the retardation of the grass growth. Further, this accounts for the hardness of the ground and shorter grass growth.

Det. [] did not locate any cement slabs except small ones that had once been parts of the cement box. The Ohio Turnpike is North of this location by perhaps ½ mile, but is visible from this site. There is no exit from the turnpike at this location. A yellow/tan building was located, however it lacked proximity to this area.

Det. [] reports a short soil "bridge" over the ditch that gives the local farmer access to the field and site.

Based on the thorough and detailed search conducted by Det. [] the fact that the site contains only a small number of the descriptors provided by GEHRING, and that a grave site was not located, this lead is considered covered.

On 6 July 2005 I received information indicating a possible site of the burial of the two Gehring children. I searched the site at 10:40 a.m. on 8 July 2005.

Based on the information given by the below listed female I checked the place that she indicated but found nothing of serious interest to the ongoing search efforts. .

The site is located in Lake Township on East Broadway North of Route #20 (in Stoney Ridge, Ohio). The site is nine tenths of a mile north of the Route # 20 intersection on the West side of Broadway.

There is a piece of field that appears to be the junction of two properties as there are nearly mature corn crops on the North and South sides of the smaller piece of field. The small piece of field is in standing tall grass. There is a cement "box" on the South edge of the field that has collapsed from age and it has a short iron pipe, perhaps 2 feet tall protruding from the top of the "box." The pipe is approximately 8 inches in diameter and very rusty. It appears to have been a smoke stack of some type. You can see into the cement box but only rubbish and small debris is present. The floor of the box is also cement. The box is approx. 8 ft. by 4 ft by 3 ft. tall. Further back into the field you will find a brush pile consisting only of 10 foot long tree branches and small bushes that were hauled there from somewhere else. There are interesting places on the ground where the tall grass is altered by what may be underneath. I would think that there is some gravel in these places that retards the growth of the grass and accounts for the hardness of that ground and the shorter grass growing there.

I found no slabs of concrete except the small ones that had once been parts of the cement "box." There was a building some distance away that was a tan or yellow but was not very close to the site. The Ohio Turnpike was North of the site by perhaps half of a mile but visible from the site. No Exit is at this point in the Turnpike.

There is a short soil "bridge" over the ditch that gives the local farmer access to the field and the site.

Manuel Gehring, [redacted] was at the home of her children's father who lives near the corner of [redacted] in Lucas County. [redacted] advised she heard childrens' voices yelling for help, and then she saw observed two children. Subsequently, she and her children were walking in the area of [redacted] and she observed a blue bench seat, which appeared to be blood-stained.

b6

[redacted] advised that [redacted] wishes to be contacted by the FBI for follow-up in regard to the above information. She can be contacted at her residence, [redacted], after 7:30 p.m.

7/14/05: The information contained in this tip is inconsistent with the facts of the case as known, in that Gehring admitted his children were dead prior to arriving in Ohio. However, contact was made with [redacted] who advised that the area in question is located on the NW corner of the intersection and has piles of dirt. [redacted] said that according to [redacted] the blue bench seat appeared to be from a van.

7/14/05: On this date, SAs [redacted] and [redacted] went to this location, on the Southwest corner of the intersection. This area is accessed through one of two dirt driveways, leading into a large dirt opening. It appears that the soil in this approach area has been recently moved as the bull dozer track impressions are quite visible and the bulldozers are parked just north of this area. Two large, rusty, white metal cylinders, approximately 10' in diameter and 20' long are visible from S.R. 295. Farther to the west of the cylinders, the grade gradually rises leading to a pond/water body of some sort. On the far western edge an abandoned blue vehicle was observed. There is a tree line and creek to the south of the opening. Along the creek are numerous abandoned pieces of mechanical equipment, exact descriptions not obtained. Several pallets of strapped concrete blocks were located on the top of a below-ground foundation of sorts, but no evidence was located to indicate that the Gehring children were buried there. No concrete cylinders, white stone pile, stacked fire wood, or water pump were located at this location. Further, a blue bench seat was not located at this time. The complete area was not physically walked by SAs [redacted] due to the rains and standing pools of water causing unstable walking conditions.

This area was also covered during the 5-mile radius search of exits 52 and 59 of the Ohio Turnpike on 9/2/03.

On July 31, 2005, Special Agent [redacted] contacted [redacted] in reference to information on the Gehring Kidnaping and she supplied the following information:

[redacted] stated there is a abandoned parcel of land in the vicinity of Route 295 and Central Avenue where she and her children sometimes walk where there is a pond that was dug approximately five years ago.

[redacted] stated she was there with her children one evening and saw a little boy and a little girl crossing over what she described as a ditch. The children yelled, "hey, hey we're over here" then [redacted] said she heard a male voice respond in a gruff voice, "hey get over here".

[redacted] returned to the lot after some time had past, (she was unable to quantify time but did indicate that there were still leaves on the trees, so possible late summer early fall). and noticed a dark blue cloth bench seat with a lighter shade of blue in the middle. She indicated that she saw a dark stain on the seat (she presumed possibly blood) and sent her son over to look at it. Her son also saw the stain but was unable to determine its source.

In describing the lot, [redacted] reported large rusty water tanks, big boulders, a yellow building across the field, and a green old fashion water pump that was lying on the ground.

These items have since been removed and the lot is currently active with various pieces of heavy machinery and many large piles of dirt.

For all of these reasons, it does not appear that this is the location where the Gehring children are buried.

Nothing further for this tip.

Subject: Gehring Case: Plant Evidence

UNCLASSIFIED
NON-RECORD

Spent the morning with Dr. [REDACTED] He offered more insight into the plant evidence collected so far, which tends to reinforce the Toledo/ closer to Lake Erie areas for a probable burial site.

b6

I read him the Gehring confession notes re the descriptions of vegetation. Dr. [REDACTED] is certain that Gehring is describing a tall flowering grass known as Phragmites communis which is more common near coastal areas, but does appear in wet areas in and around Lake Erie. It will not be as common as at the Atlantic coast, but the grass will grow in some wet areas in the Cleveland-Toledo-Erie environs. No Phragmites or anything similar were among the plant species collected from the Polk Cutoff. A drawing of the grass and description will be attached to my 302, but I'm sure there's a photograph somewhere on the Internet.

Dr. [REDACTED] also looked at the digital images of the plants taken from the undercarriage of the van. He said that they appear to be common, but again, would be found in beach or wetland areas. His advice was to have the soils examined not only for pollen, but for mineralogy. The percentage of sand/silt/clay may be a better indication of the area the grasses came from.

Finally, he examined the Department of Interior palynology report which he felt was a good report. In looking at the table of pollen percentages for the four samples, [REDACTED] came to the same conclusion that based on the presence of cattail, spatterdock, sedges, basswood, and royal fern, samples two and three, in particular, were from wetland areas. The fact that there is not even a trace of goldenrod in any of the samples collected from the van may exclude the Polk Cutoff Site in as much as those fields appeared to have a large number of goldenrod plants. Even though the plant would not have been in flower in July, one would expect to find residual goldenrod pollen in the soils from past seasons in an area where the plant was so dense.

FD-302 is in progress.

Thanks,

Facts of Complaint called to report a location which held similarities with the description of the burial site contained in the transcript of Gehring's interview statements. He has been concerned about this since it was first publicized in 2003. On 10/29/05, and his children were returning home after a day at Cedar Point. They took the back roads instead of the turnpike. He said that as you exit the turnpike at St. Rt. 250 near Sandusky, you would travel north on the first road, Mason Road. Travel about 2-3 miles and on the south side of the road you will see a mailbox bearing number 2904 Mason Road. Just before you reach the mailbox there is an entrance into "tall" grass, about 2 - 3 feet tall. There is a large willow tree behind a tree line. drove down this

Under the willow tree the soil looked to be disturbed, and this area is about 50 feet from Mason Road. There appeared to be a walking trail of some sort nearby. [redacted] said that a van would be completely protected from Mason Street once behind this tree line. There is a yellow/tan building on a hill/rise visible from this location. [redacted] stated that he did not notice any pump or fence.

Facts of Complaint

Complainant [redacted] sent a letter to the Toledo RA, along with multiple photographs of a place she thought matched the general description of the burial site. She reports an area around the quarry located on Airport Highway, the Merickel-Farley Trout Club, just a short distance from Exit 52 of the turnpike. This area was searched during the 5-mile radius search of Exit 52. In fact, the owners of the quarry were contacted. However, [redacted] reports the following information, and included photographs:

5 plastic black and whitis drums full of trash, which could have been mistaken for the cement cylinders(4ft. high) reported by Gehring.

2 piles of whitish stone/rocks mounded on top of or near the granite slab in the photo

An old fashioned, lever operated hand pump, however it is red, not green/chrome.

Several large trees, similar to willows, (which, upon close inspection of the photos, may be pine, oak, and maple)

A pile of old firewood, but this is not stacked as reported. A second pile of firewood was located in a stone fire ring by a pond.

A light beige house across the street beyond the chain like fence [redacted] also reported a cross or "x" made of 2 pieces of old wood. Within 1-2 feet of this, there are a few stakes which may be the grave marker for the other grave.

No further investigation required as the bodies were recovered 12/2/05 near Hudson, Ohio.

July 5, 2005

To Whom It May Concern,

Enclosed are some pictures I took after reading the two articles on the two missing children in the Toledo Blade newspaper.

Since the father committed suicide after he had given some information as to where he buried them along the I-80/90 turnpike, I took the articles and my camera and turned off of the Airport Interchange at Exit 52 and made a sharp right turn down a dirt or semi-paved road that lead back behind to a quarry. If my memory serves correctly, it seems that approx a year ago, there may have been some large concrete cylinders, like they use for drainage pipes, etc. This, I'm sure could be checked out by asking the owners to check their invoices, etc. If not, maybe the man thought the plastic trash drums full of trash in the one picture were the cylinders, especially if it was dusk or late at night.

After passing through the quarry I turned back and went back down the road to some private property where I came upon the trout fishing pond. This area is enclosed by chain link fencing with a gate facing some street which I wasn't able to determine. The name is on the building and on a large sign facing the street. Something like Melcher, Melnior Trout Fishing Pond. Sorry I didn't write it down but I thought it would show up better in the picture. There is a parking lot in front of the main building and restrooms and another building in back that butts up to the type of fencing described in the older article. I tried to place the pictures in chronological order according to the listing of information.

- 1.) "5-6 hollow cement cylinders, 4 ft high with rubbish inside." There more than 5 plastic black and whitish drums in the picture they were definitely full of trash.
- 2.) "A line of wire fence, six feet high, with a rectangular or square pattern." If you look closely you will be able to see that type of fencing behind the area in question. It actually leads around up to the street on the left which goes to the street.
- 3.) "A mound of white/gray rocks, about 3 feet in diameter, similar to rocks used in drainage applications." Well goodness knows, there was plenty of that type of rock at the beginning in the quarry section not to mention the mound there on top or near the granite slab seen in the picture.
- 4.) "An old-fashioned, lever operated water pump with a chrome/silver body and a green top and lever." I looked all over the quarry for such but did come across the water pump left of the main building, although it was a reddish and white pump. Perhaps the owners have painted it since.
- 5.) Next "the several large trees, similar to willow trees, but with broader, darker leaves." I tried to capture the trees as much as I could and they were hanging down somewhat similar to willow trees.
- 6.) "An embankment with soil that has eroded." If you look closely to the next picture you will see an extended mound appearing somewhat like an embankment.

- 7.) "A pile of firewood that is gray and weathered." The embankment does seem to encircle the huge pile of firewood in the back in the picture but there was also another pile of wood in the other picture near the pond. It was encircled by rocks.
- 8.) "A large yellow or tan building within view." If you drive/walk left of the area you will be able to see in the next picture on the right over the fence a beige house not to mention across the street another beige house beyond the chain link fencing.
- 9.) And then we come to the last and I think probably the most eerie picture. The one with what appeared to be 2 stakes crossed either in an X or cross shape in front of another standing stake. Like this could have been staked out for something or used as a grave marker. Also, about 1-2 feet to the left is another couple of stakes that appear to have been moved. Maybe this is also another grave marker.
- 10.) Then we come to the most recent article with the first mention of the grave "having tall grass near an old-fashioned water pump and wire fence." Well, if you look at the concrete slab mentioned above you will see some very large grass like plumes jutting out of the pile of rocks, etc. This picture I attached to the most recent article since it wasn't mentioned in the first one.

Now, the gate is closed but there are times, apparently, that it is open according to the sign on the building and certain on days. Also, as you turn around to go back out of the quarry if you turn right and go on down another road you will pass drums and a yellowish open gate that leads out to Airport Highway. This opening is not very far down the road from the Exit 52.

So, he could have gone in one of three ways.

I hope this helps in some small way in finding those 2 poor children and allows their mother and family some peace of mind and also the 2 precious children to Rest in Peace. God Bless Them.

Sincerely,

The provided information indicated there was a grey velour van seat located on a gravel road off a paved road near the truck stops on Route 8 at Barkeyville, Pennsylvania.

Writer located the van seats in question, approximately .3 miles down a gravel road that runs off Stevenson Road, approximately 1.5 miles from Route 8, Barkeyville, Pennsylvania. The two van seats were grey in color and did not have attached head rests. Further, the seats had different mounting brackets than those in the Gehring van. Writer did not observe any stains or holes in the vans seats. It appeared as though a vehicle had been recently stripped in this area, as there were other vehicle parts in the vicinity. None of the vehicle parts appeared to have suffered from long term weather exposure. Writer took pictures of the seats and the immediate area.

Facts of Complaint [redacted] OSHP [redacted] forwarded a tip his office received from [redacted] regarding a possible location for the missing children. On 7/28/05, SA [redacted] contacted [redacted] for additional information. He advised that if one continues on (westerly direction) from I-80 until it joins Toll road 76, do not enter the Toll Road, rather, stay on I-76. Exit the first exit off of I-76, Bailey Road (four lane), and turn right off of the ramp. According to [redacted] this is a relatively rural exit as compared to the other exits between Grove City, PA and I-76/I-80 intersection. At the first intersection, turn right onto Silica Road, a 2-lane road way, which is parallel to I-76. Approximately 1.05 miles on Silica there will be a long drive where 7C-BS-92360-CV-379 located. This drive has a blue iron gate across the entrance, which has been open for a significant time as it has overgrown brush on it. There are other drives/paths prior to this one on the road, but this particular site is 1.05 miles from the intersection. There is a slight dip down and then up into this lane.

There is a sizeable pile of firewood in lengths of 4'-5', off of the trail that has been weathered and grey. At the corner of Silica and Bailey, there is a large yellow/tan building. There are numerous other items along this route that may match the description of the scene as released by the FBI.

No cement cylinders, visible, but he did not travel down the path further than the gas/oil well. However, just up the road and across the street is a company/plant that appears to manufacture cement cylinders. Did not see a fence, but did not travel very far down the path. No water pump observed. Did not see cement slab on the ground. No willow trees noticed, or anything similar to it, other than numerous trees with branches hanging down.

Drove further to St. Rt. 534, and did not notice any other locations that appear to match any of the known burial site identifiers.

No further investigation as the bodies were recovered on 12/2/05 near Hudson, Ohio.

Deputy [redacted] advised she got a call from CP [redacted] advising she found some garbage and clothing items behind the cemetery on CR-2/L north of Edon, Ohio. b6 b7c

I met the CP at the above location and she advised she and her two grandsons were looking for the Gehring children.

The CP took me to the eastside of the cemetery about 30 yards out into the field. I found an Indian-style blanket, a gray T-shirt with red sleeves, two different type sandals, one green plastic flip-flop and a tan colored natural fiber weaved sandal, multiple water bottles, a blue terry cloth bath towel and other miscellaneous items. Found in the area was a box with a last name of [redacted] from Montgomery, MI b6 b7c

I called [redacted] from the FBI and advised her of what we found and she was going to do some checking on the clothes and the blanket and get back with us. [redacted] b6 b7c

10-21-03 [redacted] I went back out to CR-2/L and put the blanket, clothing and miscellaneous items in a plastic bag and put it in the evidence cage in the garage at the Sheriff's Office. b6 b7c

10/22/2003 [redacted] Received TX from [redacted] who advised that she had checked with the Boston Office of the FBI and was advised that the Gehring girl had been wearing a white shirt with a blue shirt and possibly white sandals. They had no clothing description for the boy. According to the information supplied by the Boston Office that it was her belief that the located items had nothing to do with the missing Gehring children. Agent [redacted] requested a copy of this report and the digital photo disk be sent to her. She in turn will forward it to the Boston Office of the FBI. b6 b7c

10/23/2003 - [redacted] Copy of report and photographs on disc sent to FBI Office, 420 Madison Ave, Suite 800, Toledo, OH 43604. b6 b7c

Toledo is located on the western end of Lake Erie at the mouth of the Maumee River. Except for a bank up from the river about 30 feet, the terrain is generally level with only a slight slope toward the river and Lake Erie. The city has quite a diversified industrial section and excellent harbor facilities, making it a large transportation center for rail, water, and motor freight. Generally rich agricultural land is found in the surrounding area, especially up the Maumee Valley toward the Indiana state line.

Rainfall is usually sufficient for general agriculture. The terrain is level and drainage rather poor, therefore, a little less than the normal precipitation during the growing season is better [REDACTED] called regarding the ongoing search for the missing and presumed dead children. She read a description in today's Blade and is certain that she used to drive by the burial site when she used to live in Michigan and run a delivery route to the Edon/Edgerton area. She said the site is near 20 and the state line or off SR49 south of the pike. The property is actually on the corner of two county roads just off one of these routes. She is available for call if there are further questions.

Details: From on or about 8/4/03, up through 10/14/04, the FBI in conjunction with the Ohio State Highway Patrol, County Sheriff's Offices, and respective Police Departments, began an intensive search for the GEHRING burial site across the Ohio Turnpike, Interstate 80. According to information provided by Boston and San Jose Agents, interviewing GEHRING, this was the route GEHRING claims to have traveled across the United States, and off of which he buried captioned victim children.

This was a detailed search covering a full five mile radius from each exit of the turnpike beginning at exit 216, the Lordstown East Interchange with State Route 45, and every exit thereafter in a westerly direction. All roads within this 5 mile radius were driven by law enforcement, as were grassy, gravel, dirt, and swampy paths. Fliers containing information released by the Concord Police Department/Attorney General's Office, were prepared and distributed during the search to the County Sheriff. Fliers were also provided to major land owners, oil companies, real estate offices, bus drivers, rural route mail carriers, volunteer fire departments, Metroparks Rangers, Airport Police, Ohio Department of Transportation, and local businesses within the 5 mile radius. The turnpike exits east of 216 were not searched in the detailed 5 mile radius fashion primarily due to information available at the time that GEHRING noted these were too urban and busy making them unsuitable for the burial of his children. However, any specific leads/tips received were individually searched by local law enforcement agencies.

The search included aerial support from the Ohio State Highway Patrol and Life Flight Emergency Services. K-9's were used in several locations with descriptors matching the suspected burial site. The last exit search was completed on 10/14/03 in Williams County, the westernmost county in Ohio. All met with negative results.

Because of the national news coverage this matter generated, nearly 300 viable tips were received and investigated by the Cleveland Division with negative results. The details of these leads are captured on the enclosed disk.

INCIDENT SUMMARY:

Tuesday 7/15/03

Tpr. [] of the Ohio State Patrol (OSP) District 10 Investigations and Tpr. [] of District 4 Investigations were assigned to assist the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) with locating the grave sites of two murder victims believed to be buried close to Interstate 80 (Ohio Turnpike). According to the FBI, the suspect (Manuel Gehring) had confessed to killing his daughter (Sarah N. Gehring) and son (Philip P. Gehring) and buried their bodies somewhere close off one of the tollgates along the Ohio Turnpike or the Indiana Turnpike.

Wednesday 7/16/03 0625 hrs.

Tpr. [] met with Tpr. [] and the FBI on the Ohio Turnpike at the 186 milepost westbound. FBI Special Agents [] and [] along with Concord New Hampshire Police Investigator [] had Manuel Gehring in custody in an unmarked van. Gehring consented to retrace his path of travel along the Ohio Turnpike in an effort to locate the burial site of his daughter and son. Tpr. [] had escorted them from the Mahoning County Jail in Youngstown, Ohio to the Niles-Youngstown tollgate located at the 218 milepost of the Ohio Turnpike and then west on the Ohio Turnpike.

Mr. Gehring directed the search detail to exit the Ohio Turnpike at the Akron tollgate (180) and the Cleveland tollgate (173). The searches were to no avail. Upon returning to the Cleveland tollgate, Tpr. [] secured from the detail.

Mr. Gehring then directed the search detail to exit at the Strongsville-Cleveland tollgate (161). This search was also to no avail. When the search detail returned to the Strongsville-Cleveland tollgate and continued west, FBI Special Agents [] joined the detail at the 160 milepost.

Mr. Gehring then directed the search detail to exit at the following tollgates: Vermilion (135), Sandusky-Norwalk (118), Fremont-Port Clinton (91), Elmore-Woodville-Gibsonburg (81), Stoney Ridge-Toledo (71), Toledo Airport-Swanton (52), Delta-Lyons (39), Archbold-Fayette (25), Bryan-Montpelier (13) and Westgate (2). These searches were also to no avail.

Custody of Mr. Gehring was then transferred to FBI Agents from Indiana and the Indiana State Police at the Indiana / Ohio border. Special Agent [] and Investigator [] remained with Mr. Gehring to continue the search into Indiana while Tpr. [] and Special Agents [] secured from the detail.

Monday 8/4/03 0900 hrs.

A meeting was held at District 10 Investigations involving District 10 Investigations Lt. [] Tpr. [] and Tpr. []. It was decided that searching for the gravesites should be conducted at every tollgate on the Ohio Turnpike west of the Niles-Youngstown tollgate. The search would involve a 5-mile radius surrounding each tollgate and documenting each location searched by nearest address and Global Positioning System (GPS). In addition, a flyer describing various landmarks described by Mr. Gehring, would be distributed to the County Sheriff's Offices, local police departments, fire departments,

Tuesday 7/15/03

Tpr. [] of the Ohio State Patrol (OSP) District 10 Investigations and Tpr. [] of District 4 Investigations were assigned to assist the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) with locating the gravesites of two murder victims believed to be buried close to Interstate 80 (Ohio Turnpike). According to the FBI, the suspect (Manuel Gehring) had confessed to killing his daughter (Sarah N. Gehring) and son (Philip P. Gehring) and buried their bodies somewhere close off one of the tollgates along the Ohio Turnpike or the Indiana Turnpike.

Wednesday 7/16/03 0625 hrs.

Tpr. [] met with Tpr. [] and the FBI on the Ohio Turnpike at the 186 milepost westbound. FBI Special [] along with Concord New Hampshire Police Investigator [] had Manuel Gehring in custody in an unmarked van. Gehring consented to retrace his path of travel along the Ohio Turnpike in an effort to locate the burial site of his daughter and son. Tpr. [] had escorted them from the Mahoning County Jail in Youngstown, Ohio to the Niles-Youngstown tollgate located at the 218 milepost of the Ohio Turnpike and then west on the Ohio Turnpike.

Mr. Gehring directed the search detail to exit the Ohio Turnpike at the Akron tollgate (180) and the Cleveland tollgate (173). The searches were to no avail. Upon returning to the Cleveland tollgate, Tpr. [] secured from the detail.

Mr. Gehring then directed the search detail to exit at the Strongsville-Cleveland tollgate (161). This search was also to no avail. When the search detail returned to the Strongsville-Cleveland tollgate and continued west, FBI Special Agents [] and [] joined the detail at the 160 milepost.

Mr. Gehring then directed the search detail to exit at the following tollgates: Vermilion (135), Sandusky-Norwalk (118), Fremont-Port Clinton (91), Elmore-Woodville-Gibsonburg (81), Stoney Ridge-Toledo (71), Toledo Airport-Swanton (52), Delta-Lyons (39), Archbold-Fayette (25), Bryan-Montpelier (13) and Westgate (2). These searches were also to no avail.

Custody of Mr. Gehring was then transferred to FBI Agents from Indiana and the Indiana State Police at the Indiana / Ohio border. Special Agent [] and Investigator [] remained with Mr. Gehring to continue the search into Indiana while Tpr. [] and Special Agents [] secured from the detail.

Monday 8/4/03 0900 hrs.

A meeting was held at District 10 Investigations involving District 10 Investigations Lt. [] Tpr. [] and Tpr. []. It was decided that searching for the gravesites should be conducted at every tollgate on the Ohio Turnpike west of the Niles-Youngstown tollgate. The search would involve a 5-mile radius surrounding each tollgate and documenting each location searched by nearest address and Global Positioning System (GPS). In addition, a flyer describing various landmarks described by Mr. Gehring, would be distributed to the County Sheriff's Offices, local police departments, fire departments, ODOT, local businesses, real estate offices, oil companies, school bus garages and local residences as needed to enlist the aid of the public.

SYNTHETIC TELEPATHY AND THE EARLY MIND WARS

By Richard Alan Miller copyright 2001

[Presented at the Consciousness Technologies Conference-July 19-21, 2001, on Saturday, July 20th, 2001, in Sisters, OR] updated 03/04/2003

Introduction

I first became aware of Allan H. Frey's work at Willow Grove in 1972, just after completing "The Holographic Concept of Reality." I was working with Dr. Carl Scheicher (MRU) at the time, and was asked about the significance of this work. Realizing its possible use in mind control, my first reaction was to go on "red alert."

Full significance was not yet understood at this time. Basically, Frey had discovered another sensory motor input in the higher blue-band frequencies of 0.3-3.0 GHz. - at very low amplitudes of power. It was "as if" we had another type of "vision," but did not know how to "see" what was being received. It constituted the next generation of subliminal communications.

My work at the time was involved with an AI database for paranormal references (Project Parafile). A second paper was also presented at the Omniversal Symposium, California State College at Sonoma, (September 29, 1973). This was titled "Embryonic Holography," and was an application of "The Holographic Concept of Reality" model. It dealt with biogenesis and neurological regeneration, and included speculation on the origins of cancer, faith healing, psychic surgery and more technical aspects of mind-body energetics.

One week after the delivery of that paper, four men came into my place of business, two in suits and two in full Army dress. The two suits held me under close arrest, while the two Army personnel went through my files, pulling anything related to "Embryonic Holography." The paper was rewritten from old notes and memory, but it was not the same.

What got this paper classified "top secret" for almost 20 years was that it was critical for the use of Allan Frey's study, and its possible application to mind control. I never was able to draw what was so important in that initial paper until I began researching this paper, more than 24 years later. I will discuss those aspects further into this document.

In 1961, Allan Frey, a freelance biophysicist and engineering psychologist, reported that humans could hear microwaves. Most United States scientists dismissed this discovery as the result of outside noise.

James C. Linn offered a more technical description of the experiment.

"Frey found that human subjects exposed to 1310 MHz and 2982 MHz microwaves at average power densities of 0.4 to 2 mW/cm² perceived auditory sensations described as buzzing or knocking sounds. The sensation occurred instantaneously at average incident power densities well below that necessary for known biological damage and appeared to originate from within or near the back of the head."

Pulsed Microwave Technology

Pulsed microwave voice-to-skull (or other-sound-to-skull) transmission was discovered during World War II by radar technicians who found they could hear the buzz of the train of pulses being transmitted by radar equipment they were working on. This phenomenon has been studied extensively by Dr. Allan Frey, (Willow Grove, 1965) whose work has been published in a number of reference books.

What Dr. Frey found was that single pulses of microwave could be heard by some people as "pops" or "clicks", while a train of uniform pulses could be heard as a buzz, without benefit of any type of receiver.

Dr. Frey also found that a wide range of frequencies, as low as 125 MHz (well below microwave) worked for some combination of pulse power and pulse width. Detailed unclassified studies mapped out those frequencies and pulse characteristics which are optimum for generation of "microwave hearing".

Very significantly, when discussing electronic mind control, is the fact that the peak pulse power required is modest - something like 0.3 watts per square centimeter of skull surface, and that this power level is only applied or needed for a very small percentage of each pulse's cycle time. 0.3-watts/sq cm is about what you get under a 250-watt heat lamp at a distance of one meter. It is not a lot of power.

When you take into account that the pulse train is off (no signal) for most of each cycle, the average power is so low as to be nearly undetectable. This is the concept of "spike" waves used in radar and other military forms of communication.

Frequencies that act as voice-to-skull carriers are not single frequencies, as, for example TV or cell phone channels. Each sensitive frequency is actually a range or "band" of frequencies. A technology used to reduce both interference and detection is called "spread spectrum". Spread spectrum signals usually have the carrier frequency "hop" around within a specified band.

Unless a receiver "knows" this hop schedule in advance, like other forms of encryption there is virtually no chance of receiving or detecting a coherent readable signal. Spectrum analyzers, used for detection, are receivers with a screen. A spread spectrum signal received on a spectrum analyzer appears as just more "static" or noise.

The actual method of the first successful unclassified voice to skull experiment was in 1974, by Dr. Joseph C. Sharp and Mark Grove, then at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research. A Frey-type audible pulse was transmitted every time the voice waveform passed down through the zero axes, a technique easily duplicated by ham radio operators who build their own equipment.

The sensation is reported as a buzzing, clicking, or hissing which seems to originate within or just behind the head. The phenomenon occurs with carrier densities as low as microwatts per square centimeter with carrier frequencies from 0.3-3.0 GHz. By proper choice of pulse characteristics, intelligent speech may be created.

Dr. James Lin of Wayne State University has written a book entitled: Microwave Auditory Effects and Applications. It explores the possible mechanisms for the phenomenon, and discusses possibilities for the deaf, as persons with certain types of hearing loss can still hear pulsed microwaves (as tones or clicks and buzzes, if words aren't modulated on). Lin mentions the Sharp and Grove experiment and comments: "The capability of communicating directly with humans by pulsed microwaves is obviously not limited to the field of therapeutic medicine."

"Synthetic Telepathy"

previous / \(top\)

In 1975, researcher A. W. Guy stated that "one of the most widely observed and accepted biologic effects of low average power electromagnetic energy is the auditory sensation evoked in man when exposed to pulsed microwaves."

He concluded that at frequencies where the auditory effect can be easily detected, microwaves penetrate deep into the tissues of the head, causing rapid thermal expansion (at the microscopic level only) that produces strains in the brain tissue.

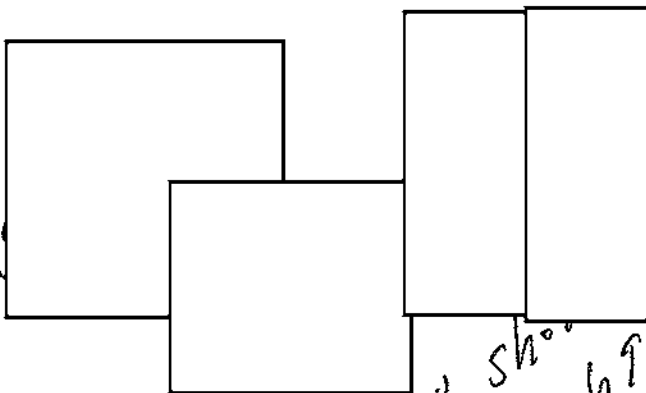

An acoustic stress wave is then conducted through the skull to the cochlea, and from there, it proceeds in the same manner as in conventional hearing. It is obvious that receiver-less radio has not been adequately publicized or explained because of national security concerns.

Today, the ability to remotely transmit microwave voices inside a target's head is known inside the Pentagon as "Synthetic Telepathy." According to Dr. Robert Becker, "Synthetic Telepathy has applications in covert operations designed to drive a target crazy with voices or deliver undetected instructions to a programmed assassin."

This technology may have contributed to the deaths of 25 defense scientists variously employed by Marconi Underwater and Defense Systems, Easems and GEC. Most of the scientists worked on highly sensitive electronic warfare programs for NATO, including the Strategic Defense Initiative. It is claimed that directed energy weapons might have been used to literally drive these men to suicide and 291 accidents.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SUSPECTED BURIAL SITE OF SARAH AND PHILIP GEHRING OFF INTERSTATE-80

The search for the suspected burial site has thus far been focused on I-80 between Grove City, Pennsylvania, and Iowa City, Iowa. Though no portion of this highway can necessarily be ruled out, authorities are now concentrating their efforts on rural areas off I-80 between the Indiana/Ohio state line and Joliet, Illinois.

Approach to the Suspected Burial Site:

Exit I-80, westbound, and make a right turn at the end of the exit onto a two-lane, paved roadway (one lane each way). Take another right turn onto another two-lane roadway. This roadway may run parallel to I-80 at this point and has a yellow line down the middle, which may have been a dotted yellow line.

To the right off this roadway is an opening in tall grass. The grass may be 3 to 4 feet tall, green at the bottom, and tan or brown at the top, with seeds at the top. There is a downhill slope from the roadway, then an uphill slope to the opening in the grass. The grass is somewhat matted down, apparently from other vehicles traveling through it in the past.

Suspected Burial Site:

The suspected burial site is approximately 50 feet from the two-lane road described above. The following is a list of identifying features present near the suspected grave site:

1. Five to six cement cylinders, 4 feet in diameter, and 3-4 feet high.
2. Wire fence line, 6 feet high, with a rectangular or square pattern.
3. Mound of white or gray rocks, about 2-3 inches in diameter, similar to rocks used in drainage applications.
4. Old-fashioned, hand-lever-operated, water pump with a chrome/silver body and a green top and green handle or lever.
5. An irregularly shaped cement slab, about 4-5 feet across and about 3-4 inches thick. Slab is laying flat on the ground.

6. Several very large shade trees, similar to willow trees, but having leaves that are more broad and darker green than willow leaves. The limbs of the tree bend down to the ground.
7. Embankment with soil that has eroded.
8. Pile of firewood that is weathered and grey in color.
9. There is said to be a large yellow or tan building (possibly a metal building) that is within view of the burial site.
10. It is believed that this suspected burial site is within 10 miles north or south of I-80.

The FBI is requesting that people who live or have property along the I-80 interstate to check it for any irregularities regarding this matter. If any are found, ask them to contact their local authorities first.

Concord, New Hampshire Regional Crimeline has authorized a $5,000 reward for information that assists authorities in locating Philip and Sarah Gehring. Please contact your local or state law enforcement office, or the Toledo FBI Office, 419-243-6122, if you have any information that may be helpful.

cific about the search, but his office had enough information from sources to return to north-west Ohio.

"There are several tips and information that took us to Exits 52 and 59," Mr. Strelzin said. "We continue to receive tips and as we get them, we will check those out as well.

"There are some, because of dates, we know won't be helpful," he said, "but then we hear something that has some of the things we're looking for and we want to investigate."

Authorities searched until roughly 4:30 p.m. with no luck. The search will resume this morning.

Authorities believe the suspected burial site is about 50 feet from the road. Around the suspected site, they believe, will be the following things:

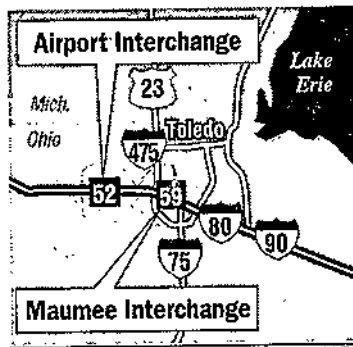

- Five or six hollow cement cylinders, four feet in diameter and three to four feet high with rubbish inside.

- A line of wire fence, six feet high, with a rectangular or square pattern.

- A mound of white/gray

SEARCH FOR BODIES

Officials from the FBI, Ohio, New Hampshire, county, and local law enforcement searched a five-mile radius around Ohio Turnpike Exit 59 at Reynolds Road and Exit 52 at Toledo Express Airport for the bodies of two missing children. Police believe the New Hampshire father of the children killed them.

rocks, about three feet in diameter, similar to rocks used in drainage applications.

- An old-fashioned, lever-operated water pump with a chrome/silver body and a green top and lever.

- An irregularly shaped cement slab, four to five feet across and three to four inches thick, flat on the ground.

Philip Gehring, 11, and his sister, Sarah, 14, are believed to have been killed by their father and buried near here.

- Several very large trees, similar to willow trees, but with broader, darker leaves.

- An embankment with soil that has eroded.

- A pile of firewood that is gray and weathered.

- A large yellow or tan building within view.

Agencies providing officers for the search included Lucas, Wood, and Fulton county sheriff's departments, Ohio Highway Patrol Swanton command, Toledo, Maumee, Rossford, Waterville, Sylvania Township, Perrysburg, Perrysburg Township, Toledo Area Metroparks, and the Toledo-Lucas County Port Authority.

Mom starts trip to find her buried children

Police scoured I-80 area in northwest Ohio

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CONCORD, N.H. — The Fourth of July, normally a time for celebration, marks a somber anniversary for one New Hampshire mother: Two years ago, her children disappeared.

Terri Knight plans to leave for the Midwest tomorrow to renew the search for her children's burial site somewhere along I-80.

Manuel Gehring never gave a clear description of where he buried his children, Philip, 11, and Sarah, 14, before committing suicide in February, 2004.

Last month the FBI posted tapes of interviews with Gehring on its Web site, hoping to renew interest in the search.

One of the most intense areas in which authorities have searched is along the Ohio Turnpike in northwest Ohio.

"I don't have any delusions that I will be the one to drive out and find them," Ms. Knight said yesterday. "I need to do that. I need to make sure they're found and brought home."

She said she has received at least 100 e-mails from the Midwest. "Lots of leads have come in," she said. "We have a lot of places to filter out."

On July 4, 2003, Ms. Knight's ex-husband, Manuel Gehring, and their children were at a fireworks display in Concord. Bystanders said they argued and left, the children in tears. Six days later, he was arrested in California, without them.

Within hours, he was telling authorities he shot the children in his minivan soon after leaving Concord and buried them off I-80 in the Midwest, somewhere in a nearly 14,000-square-mile area.

Police drove Gehring along the route, but he couldn't find the site. Tips came in from around the country when police gave the public a description. Gehring killed himself awaiting trial.

Ms. Knight will give news interviews along the way to refocus attention on Gehring's description of the site where he says he buried them.

He told police the grave was in tall grass near an old-fashioned water pump and wire fence, within sight of a tan or yellow building. Concrete pipes standing on end and a concrete slab were nearby, he said.

The zone is within 10 miles, north or south, of I-80 in a nearly 700-mile stretch from Grove City, Pa., where Gehring bought a shovel, to Iowa City, Iowa.

Sirs;

I am writing to you today (as I should have done sometime ago) about the 2 children that you are searching for that their father supposedly buried off the turnpike.

I talked to the sexton out at Lake Township cemetery (off I-280). is buried there. We discussed all the clues that were given and Lake Township had them all. However there is another cemetery off I-280, Restlawn.

Now, if you think like the father and put yourself inside his head where would you bury those kids? He is of the Catholic faith I believe, and he would want to bury them in a cemetery.

And of course, he would not want to dig in a hard ground; too hard a job and take too long. So why not bury them in soft ground, like a fresh grave perhaps.
He put tape crosses on their chests so I heard that ^{thus} thinking he was giving them a Christian burial.

This is only supposition on my part but I was trying to think like he would think.

Maybe this will give you a clue, I don't know but I had to write to you my feelings.

Missing Children Report

Attached is a report made by one of our patrol sergeants over the weekend.

C.R. 2003-9583

Department Info.

Reference: Possible burial site for F.B.I.

On 09-14-2003 this officer received information from a concerned citizen. This person advised that about two weeks ago, he was looking at a piece of property to buy. He looked over the property, but decided not to buy. When this person read in the paper this past week of the indicators, this property he had looked at had some of those indicators. This is when he called this officer at home, with that information.

This officer contacted Sgt. [REDACTED] (Detective). I advised him of what I was told. He in turn told me to go ahead and check it out. Advising me of all the indicators, which I had a copy of.

On 09-15-2003 at approximately 0840 hrs. I went to this area. The property is located off the North side of Cullman road, East of S.R. 19, and or West of Woodrich road. The property does not have a house listing, in the directory. I was told it was owned by a [REDACTED] previously, but that it had just been sold, unknown to who. On the East side of the property there is a grass lane leading from the roadway, down a fence row on the East side. The lane leads back into the woods, approximately 50 yards long. Once in the woods it opens up into many mowed lanes. On the Northwest corner of the woods is a light off brown metal pole barn. On the west side of the barn laid 8, 4 foot long by 1 foot diameter clay tiles. On the South side of the woods was a 4 foot high with 6 inch squares fence. The woods is probably less than 3 acres in size. The woods has several large oak trees, with the limbs hanging close to the ground. Also inside the woods, there was a pile of firewood, that had not been split. I did not feel that it was grey in color though.

I reported all to Sgt. [REDACTED] (Detective).

This letter is in regard to the whereabouts of the bodies of Sara and Phillip Gehring. I was moved by the mothers fruitless efforts to find them. So I decided to try myself and I believe I have found their location. I ask you to look between mile markers 105 and 106, around 105.6 and 105.7 on the North side of I-80 approximately 150 to 200 feet from the pavement. I choose to remain anonymous for now but I will come forward when I see on the News that the children's bodies have been found. Please do not take this information lightly. I am all but positive that they can be found at the location given. This is not a guess and I will explain how I obtained this information after they are found.

Thank you.

Tpr. [] of the Ohio State Patrol (OSP) District 10 Investigations and Tpr. [] of District 4 Investigations were assigned to assist the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) with locating the grave sites of two murder victims believed to be buried close to Interstate 80 (Ohio Turnpike). According to the FBI, the suspect (Manuel Gehring) had confessed to killing his daughter (Sarah N. Gehring) and son (Philip P. Gehring) and buried their bodies somewhere close off one of the tollgates along the Ohio Turnpike or the Indiana Turnpike. b6 b7C

Wednesday 7/16/03 0625 hrs.

Tpr. [] met with Tpr. [] and the FBI on the Ohio Turnpike at the 186 milepost westbound. FBI Special Agents [] and [] along with Concord New Hampshire Police Investigator [] had Manuel Gehring in custody in an unmarked van. Gehring consented to retrace his path of travel along the Ohio Turnpike in an effort to locate the burial site of his daughter and son. Tpr. [] had escorted them from the Mahoning County Jail in Youngstown, Ohio to the Niles-Youngstown tollgate located at the 218 milepost of the Ohio Turnpike and then west on the Ohio Turnpike. b6 b7C

Mr. Gehring directed the search detail to exit the Ohio Turnpike at the Akron tollgate (180) and the Cleveland tollgate (173). The searches were to no avail. Upon returning to the Cleveland tollgate, Tpr. [] secured from the detail. b6 b7C

Mr. Gehring then directed the search detail to exit at the Strongsville-Cleveland tollgate (161). This search was also to no avail. When the search detail returned to the Strongsville-Cleveland tollgate and continued west, FBI Special Agents [] and [] joined the detail at the 160 milepost.

Mr. Gehring then directed the search detail to exit at the following tollgates: Vermilion (135), Sandusky-Norwalk (118), Fremont-Port Clinton (91), Elmore-Woodville-Gibsonburg (81), Stoney Ridge-Toledo (71), Toledo Airport-Swanton (52), Delta-Lyons (39), Archbold-Fayette (25), Bryan-Montpelier (13) and Westgate (2). These searches were also to no avail. b6 b7C

Custody of Mr. Gehring was then transferred to FBI Agents from Indiana and the Indiana State Police at the Indiana / Ohio border. Special Agent [] and Investigator [] remained with Mr. Gehring to continue the search into Indiana while Tpr. [] and Special Agents [] and [] secured from the detail.

Monday 8/4/03 0900 hrs.

A meeting was held at District 10 Investigations involving District 10 Investigations Lt. [] Tpr. [] and Tpr. []. It was decided that searching for the gravesites should be conducted at every tollgate on the Ohio Turnpike west of the Niles-Youngstown tollgate. The search would involve a 5-mile radius surrounding each tollgate and documenting each location searched by nearest address and Global Positioning System (GPS). In addition, a flyer describing various landmarks described by Mr. Gehring, would be distributed to the County Sheriff's Offices, local police departments, fire departments, ODOT, local businesses, real estate offices, oil companies, school bus garages and local residences as needed to enlist the aid of the public. b6 b7C

8/4, 8/6, 8/7, 8/12, 8/19 and 8/27/03

The Ravenna tollgate, milepost 193, (SR 44 exit) was searched by the following:

Pollen Analysis of Samples Q1-Q4

Debra A. Willard and Christopher E. Bernhardt

(703) 648-5320 dwillard@usgs.gov

August, 2004

Pollen was isolated from sediment samples Q1-Q4 following laboratory procedures outlined in Traverse (1988). In the relatively large samples Q1 and Q4, sufficient pollen was present to count and identify at least 300 grains per sample; the remainder of each slide was scanned to identify other taxa present that were not represented in the count. Samples Q2 and Q3 were very small; counts of every grain present on the slide yielded only 90 and 224 grains, respectively. Percent abundance of all taxa were calculated from these counts, and the results are provided in Table 1. Samples Q1, Q2, and Q3 were similar to each other, representing sediment removed from digging implements. Sample Q4 was collected from the undercarriage of a vehicle, and the pollen assemblage from this differs distinctly from the other three.

Samples Q1-Q3 all are dominated by Pinus (pine) pollen, which comprises 55-60% of the assemblages. Quercus (oak) pollen ranks second in abundance, contributing 7-20% of the assemblages. Tsuga (hemlock) and Picea (spruce) pollen are common (1-7% and 3-10%, respectively), and Carya (hickory) is present in small amounts (1-3%). Based on the relative abundance of tree taxa in samples Q1, Q2, and Q3, the most likely source for these samples is in northeastern Ohio, probably east of Cleveland. This conclusion is based on comparison of these data with contour maps of pollen abundance in surface samples collected throughout eastern North America (Delcourt et al., 1984).

Pinus commonly comprises ~50% of assemblages in the southeastern United States and in central Canada (Fig. 1). There also is a cluster of sites near Cleveland with abundances of 40-60% of Pinus. Aside from occurrences in mountainous regions of the southeastern United States, the southernmost occurrence of Picea pollen is north of approximately 41° north (Fig. 2). Along the Interstate 80 corridor, it attains 10% abundance in two areas, one in northeastern Ohio and one near Chicago, Illinois. Tsuga pollen is most abundant in Pennsylvania and New York state. Near Interstate 80 in Pennsylvania, Tsuga pollen is much more abundant than observed in samples Q1, Q2, and Q3; abundance <10% occur in surface samples in eastern Ohio and southern-central Michigan (Fig. 3). Quercus is a dominant component (>40%) in surface pollen assemblages in central Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois (Fig. 4). Samples with ≤20% are confined to the Atlantic Coastal Plain and a band extending from approximately eastern New York to western Ohio at latitudes of approximately 41°-43° N. Acer pollen is rare in samples Q1, Q2, and Q3. In most of Pennsylvania, Acer comprises 5-10% of assemblages (Fig. 5), indicating that the sediment source probably is west of 80° W longitude. These distributions strongly suggest a source in northeastern Ohio, between Cleveland and the Pennsylvania border.

A number of wetland plants are represented in these pollen assemblages. These include the tree Nyssa aquatica (cotton gum), and herbaceous taxa Nuphar (spatterdock), Typha (cattail), fern spores (including Osmunda), Lycopodium (club moss), members of the Caryophyllaceae (pink/carnation family), and cf. Peltandra virginica (green arrow arum). Because the pollen of the wetland plants is not transported far from their source, their presence in these samples strongly suggest that the sediment from samples Q1, Q2, and Q3 came from a wetland site.

Sample Q4 is roughly codominated by Pinus, Quercus, and Poaceae (grass) pollen. Other taxa present include Carya, Picea, Betula, Juglans, Acer, Ulmus, Tsuga, Nyssa, and fern spores. In addition, two types of moss were observed in the macrofossil fraction. The presence of pollen from some wetland taxa is consistent with their presence in the other samples. Because the sample was collected from the undercarriage of a vehicle, which would mix pollen from a variety of sources, this sample is not particularly useful for pinpointing any one location as a source for the material.
